ADD Reinforces Corporate Governance Standards by Declaring Intent to Join CAC

Bangkok – AddTech Hub PLC ("ADD"), a provider of digital content and digital solution services, is stepping up its corporate governance standards by declaring its intention to join the Thai Private Sector Collective Action Against Corruption (CAC) for the first time. This move reinforces its commitment to "operating with transparency and integrity," alongside plans to structure the organization with a clear system of checks and balances. The initiative aims to build maximum confidence among investors and shareholders, paving the way for sustainable growth.

Mr. Sompoch Tanutantivong, Chief Financial Officer of AddTech Hub Public Company Limited (ADD), stated that the Company has always been committed to elevating its management standards. By declaring its intention to join the Thai Private Sector Collective Action Against Corruption (CAC) for the first year, the Company clearly demonstrates its commitment to operating under Good Corporate Governance principles in a tangible way.

Recognizing the importance of fraud-free management and adhering to the principles of straightforward, honest, transparent, and fair business operations, ADD has strictly implemented the "Anti-Corruption Policy." This policy serves as a safeguard and establishes operational standards to ensure that directors, executives, employees, and subsidiaries are not involved in any form of corruption.

"ADD's declaration to join the CAC not only reflects our responsibility toward society and the nation, but also sends a positive signal to investors and shareholders that we have an excellent risk management system and a transparent, accountable operational structure. These factors serve as a vital foundation for building confidence and driving the Company toward strong, stable, and sustainable growth in the capital market," Mr. Sompoch added.
